Charles Hal Wyman Nason of Carmel Valley is packing up his shooting irons again. In his case this can mean only one thing, that he'll soon be off to England as a contender in Queen Elizabeth's most dignified and traditional shooting matches.

How a Yankee marksman came to be a regular entrant in the annual Imperial Meeting, the empire-wide matches at Bisley, England, is still something of a mystery to his non-shooting friends.

Dr. Richard Snyder Third Candidate For School Board

Dr. Richard Snyder, social psychologist on the staff of the United States Army Leadership Human Research Unit at the Presidio, Tuesday afternoon filed his declaration of candidacy for one of the two vacancies on the Carmel Unified School District governing board. Gordon Campbell, present chairman of the board, and Mrs. Frank Lloyd declared themselves as candidates last month. The election is on May 19.

Dr. Snyder, the father of five children, two of whom attend River School, Judy a second grader and Debbie in the kindergarten, has been a resident of Hatton Fields Mesa for six years. Another of his children, Doug, enters kindergarten next fall. Twins, Martha and Tom, three years old in June, complete the family.

"One of my main reasons for wishing to be on the school board," said Dr. Snyder yesterday morning, "is that I want to see these children and other Carmel children get the best education possible."

"My professional knowledge should be the basis of some use to the board," he continued.

"Carmel schools rank high in the California educational system. I want to encourage the best kind of teachers to come here and to remain," he added.

Dr. Snyder also stated that in a period of continued expansion, such as is facing the Carmel school system, he would like the Carmel

But the facts are that he has been carrying home medals and trophies from overseas ever since the Duke of Gloucester handed him his first cup in 1955.

The institution has, like most, British traditional functions, a weighty and imposing history, according to Charlie Nason. Queen Victoria fired the first shot in these matches at Wimbledon in 1860, making a bullseye, of course, with a little help from wires and ribbons on her stationary target weapon.

Later following a dispute with the local laird over land use, the meetings were moved to their present Bisley site, in the neighborhood of the Imperial Staff College and military complex. This is an appropriate location since most of the entering shooting teams are military organizations throughout the empire.

British shooting is a bigger challenge, Charlie says, than American shooting. Our big-bore rifle targets stand 900 to 1,000 yards away for distance shooting, theirs 1,100 to 1,200 yards.

In talking about past matches he has attended as the sole American, Charlie can drum up plenty of the color and excitement of the sport. He tells of the tattoos given by the costumed Highlanders, of the elderly British lady whose astounding marksmanship won her the queen's prize, and of the strange jinx on the Irish shooting team. (For instance, one year the Irish team captain fired his first shot right through his ammunition box and his partner laughed so hard he dropped his rifle and broke the sights.)

To the uninitiated, it turns out

Carmel Planners See Revised Fenton Development

Revised plans for development of the Fenton Block were received by the planning commission at their study session yesterday afternoon.

New plans are for three buildings fronting on Ocean Avenue between Mission and Junipero Streets, with the rest of the block extending south to Seventh Street, undeveloped as yet.

Olof Dahlstrand, who designed the original Carmel Plaza Block development, for which Francis Palms was architect, is also the designer of the latest development. No longer associated with the firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill, he is opening his own office in Carmel.

A two-story building is planned for the corner of Ocean Avenue and Mission Street. It will house

Council To Have Do-Nut Plan From Commissioners Soon

Planning commissioners in study session yesterday afternoon decided that city council referrals limiting size of business district multiple dwellings and commercial buildings should be studied by the commission as a whole. They also indicated they desired a study session with council members, to clarify the referrals in relation to the commission's chairman's report on

Kite Festival At High School Field Saturday Afternoon

Contestants this year in the annual Carmel Kite Festival will gather at the High School football field on Saturday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock. The parade before the festival has been cancelled, announces Vincent Torras, chairman of the Lions Club committee arranging the kite festival.

Fragile kites, the result of long hours of work by children entering kite festival contests, were sometimes damaged in parade vehicles, he added. This resulted in fewer and fewer participants. Last year very few children joined the pre-festival parade.

Prizes will be awarded winners in several age groups in the four festival classes; highest flying; smallest; largest; prettiest. Conditions are that the kite must be made by the contestant and must be airborne.

Those assisting Torras on the committee are the following Lions, James Buffington, George Dear, and Robert O'Brien.

Junipero Dwellers Gain A Reprieve For Their Street

The Carmel City Council, running into unanimous Junipero street home-owner opposition to a major street improvement project on Junipero between Ocean and Eighth, found itself divided two ways on two motions, last night, and ended up without an approved plan for the project, but with the prospect of a revised plan coming up immediately.

The Junipero dwellers went home figuring they had had a reprieve—but that's all.

The two-hour fight started as soon as Clayton Neill, city engineer, unfurled his map for the two blocks of street work. Residents of the area affected gathered around. They didn't like it, Neill explained, that this was a revised, improved plan over the one the council had informally approved two weeks ago. The plan for center parking in the first block had been abandoned. The center groups of pines would be preserved intact, and parking would not be allowed or at least not encouraged on the east side. Oaks had been saved here—and here.

"Yes, but how many trees will have to be cut out?"

"We can't say for sure until we start," Neill said.

"How many trees on this plan are marked for taking out?" the dwellers insisted.

"We can't say..." began Neill. "Twenty-one," announced City Councilman Gunnar Norberg.

After that no amount of arguing on the part of Mayor John Chitwood and Street Commissioner James Buffington that the street had to have an expensive drainage job, and the city couldn't use state gas tax money for drainage without making a major street improvement project of it with curbs and gutters and width to speci-

Will Probate In Salinas Tomorrow

Yesterday officers of Chris Hill, Monterey County Administrator, completed a two-day search of the little house on San Antonio Street near Seventh that had been the home of Frances Adney for many years. She died there alone on January 30 at the age of 84.

They could find no will later than the one she had written in 1951, leaving her home and two lots to the Carmel Library. There was nothing to substantiate her later letter to the library board stating that she intended to make a will leaving her property to the Red Cross.

Tomorrow, in Salinas, the will she wrote herself, naming the library her beneficiary, and sent to the library board in 1951, (She sent a copy to Arne Halle at the same time,) will be filed for probate, and Chris Hill named administrator.

A search for relatives who might have a claim on Frances Adney's estate has been fruitless. Attorney George Walker, who is representing the public administrator, has received a letter from C. G. Adney of Visalia, stating that he and Frances were divorced in 1910, that their only child, a boy, died when he was nine years old. A half sister of Frances, Mae, is dead. W. B. and Louise Canine, Frances' parents, who are buried in Corrine, Utah, had no other children, Adney stated.

Value of the lots, which will be put up for sale by the public administrator, is estimated at $14,000 to $20,000. Administrative costs will run around $2,000. There are apparently no personal bills, nor delinquent taxes, and Mrs. Adney had around $100 in the bank when she died. Her only income was a $78 monthly check from the county welfare department.

An artist, she lived her later years as a recluse. She refused to receive friends, and was seen only when she came to town occasionally, heavily veiled, to buy her groceries.

Leidig Asks Council To Stand Pat On No To Fenton Gas Pump

Fred Leidig obtained signatures today to the following petition addressed to the Carmel city council:

"We, the undersigned, owners of businesses or of business property and workers in the business district of Carmel, who are also citizens of Carmel or residents of the Carmel area, do hereby express our emphatic approval of the stand you took in upholding the basic zoning of Carmel when you denied service station facilities in the so-called Fenton block. We urge you not to consider changing this stand in any way."

Since last Thursday Carmel citizens have expressed both support and opposition to the city council's action last month in denying an

Friday, March 20—Carmel High at Watsonville (Varsity and JV), 3:30 o'clock.

Sunday, March 22—Little League Tryouts at High School field (8-10-year-olds), 1:00-4:00 o'clock.

Tuesday, March 24—Monterey Tournament—Carmel vs. Salinas, 9:30 o'clock a.m.

TRACK AND FIELD

Saturday, March 21—Hollister High School at Carmel, 1:00 o'clock.

CIRCLING THE BASES

Another big year lies ahead for Carmel's Little League as over 65 boys in the 11-12-age group reported to the high school field for the first tryout of the season. President Bill Woolsey is very enthusiastic about the talent displayed by the youngsters and predicts the Little League caliber will be even better than last year.

This Sunday at 1:00 o'clock, the 8-10-age group will report to the high school field for a tryout supervised by the Little League managers. Prospective Little Leaguers are requested to bring birth certificates when reporting for the tryouts. . . . Tim O'Shea, Carmel High's all-league pitcher last season, has been working himself into playing condition with the current Padre squad and appears fit for full-speed action when he reports to the Pittsburgh Pirate camp in Florida. The stocky left-hander is due in Jacksonville, Florida, on March 30 and is destined for action with one of the Pirate farm clubs after the spring training session is finished. . . . The Carmel High baseball squad is glad it doesn't have to meet the CCAL A-division teams as a regular diet this season. Monterey High visited the Padre diamond for a little informal scrimmage last week and rattled the fences for 15 runs against the shaky Carmel pitching staff. With such good past-timers, Len Napoli, Ted and Ron Locicero, Mel Yoshida and Larry James on the squad, the Toreadors will be tough to handle in the big-school conference. Last Friday afternoon, the Santa Cruz Cardinals came to town and patted the local preps for 18 runs on every variety of base hit known to baseball. The Padres travel to Watsonville tomorrow to try out another big one in the A-league and complete the circuit by clashing with the Salinas Cowboys in the first round of the Monterey Easter Tournament. . . . Monterey Peninsula College got off to a rough start in the Coast JC Conference by dropping a pair to the Wood Menlo College team last Saturday. The Lobos have better than average pitching with Dick Jennings and Mickey Chapin but lack the power hitters to match the swingers from Menlo, San Jose and Diablo. Coach Pete Peletta's charges open their home season next Monday in a double-header with Diablo College.

Lots of baseball on tap at Monterey's El Estero diamond and the Monterey Peninsula College field next Tuesday and Wednesday where the Monterey High Easter Tournament will be held. Carmel and Salinas start the action at MPC with a 9:30 o'clock joust of the David and Goliath variety. The Cowboys figure to make things pretty rough for Carmel in this one and are rated even-up with Monterey to take the tourney. Host Monterey takes on Hollister in Tuesday's 1:00 o'clock game while Santa Cruz tackles Pacific Grove and Gonzales tangles with Watsonville. Play continues on Wednesday in both the consolation and the championship brackets of the tournament.

KING CITY SWAMPS CARMEL TRACK SQUADS

A pair of powerful King City High track teams swept to convincing victories over the outmaneuvered Carmel squads last Saturday afternoon at the Mustang oval. Minus several cinch point-makers, the Padres were no match for the hosts as the swift King City lads piled up an 82-29 win in the varsity division and soared to a 103-10 victory in the lightweight class. The Mustangs were particularly strong in the sprints, weights and distance events and had blazing speed in the relay.

Bill Harder, with a double win in the hurdles and a third-place tie in the high jump, was Carmel's top performer in the losing effort. The wiry transfer from the Carlsbad Military Academy breezed to wins in both the high and low hurdles and looks to be the class of the B-division timber-toppers. Other point makers for the Padres were Charley Todd, second in the 220; Frank Mayo, second in the 440; Bill Kearney, first in the 880; Bob Kimball, third in the mile; Nick Vertin, tie for first in the pole vault and second in the high jump; and Dave Vincent, third in the discus. Carmel lightweight scorers were Lee Oleson, third in the 330; Joe Zoellin, second in the 660; Dan Moore, second in the 1320; Nick Molitor, third in the low hurdles, and Gary Clay, third in the pole vault.

Carmel's track squads, strengthened by additions from the basketball teams, will entertain the Hollister Haybalers at the Bardarson Field this Saturday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. Hollister has always been a power in B-division track and Saturday's meet should be closely contested in both the lightweight and varsity divisions.

CARMEL CAGERS NO MATCH AT STANFORD TOURNAMENT

It was a case of men against boys at the new Peninsula Basketball Tournament held at Stanford University as the overmatched Carmel High squad bowed to the big Palo Alto and Carlmont High aggregations. In the opening evening's play against Palo Alto, the Carmel lads made it close for the first half but Paly's superior reserve strength took its toll in the second half and the Peninsula lads finished in front, 64 to 54. Dale Dawson, Frank Wallace and Bill Hicks played outstanding ball for the Padres but Palo Alto's rebounding power was too much to overcome.

Moving into the consolation bracket in Friday night's play, the Padres drew the classy Carlmont team as their opponents and reaped for a 76-38 lacing from the champs of NPAL. Carlmont had nearly upset Camden the previous night and was easily the second-best team in the tournament. The powerful Camden squad, undefeated in the season, breezed to an easy win over Willow Glen in Saturday night's finals to be crowned the first champion of the Peninsula Tournament.

Town Topics . . .

The visit of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor to the Peninsula next week recalls an acutely embarrassing moment to Topics. In the 1920s the then Prince of Wales visited Canada. He was the idol of small girls, especially after he visited schools and asked for and obtained a full day's holiday for the students.

Such was the worship of the schoolgirls, they gathered in crowds to see him when he left their city. They each had a rolled paper streamer to throw across the street as he drove by in a car, smiling and waving. Topics' streamer didn't unroll. It hit the Prince of Wales in the eye. He flinched, frowned, then smiled again. We, perched atop our father's shoulders, in full view, were not so self-possessed. "You hurt him," cried indignant schoolmates and other on-lookers and there was no place to hide.

Two years ago, reading the Duke of Windsor's memoirs, we fully understood what the author meant when he said, the one thing he dreaded on tours was being hit with well-intended missiles.

A gray whale blew in the bay off the river mouth on March 8. It approached closer and closer to the shore, blowing, then showing its full length and massive flukes as it sounded. After a half-hour of this cavorting, the whale jumped straight up, half its length above the surface, then disappeared.

Presumably it didn't like the look of Carmel Point.

This Sunday there was no whale to watch at the river mouth but a jeepster. Loaded with a family picnic party, the car traversed the beach from the river to the tip of Carmel Point. Driver and occupants unloaded two barbecues and prepared supper before departing as they came.

Are we going to have a parking problem on the state-owned beach? Outraged members of the Unofficial Carmel Picnicking and Sunbathing Society are planning to plague their unofficial president, Senator Fred Farr, with heated protests.

Dogs can't run unleashed on the River Beach and children can't climb the cypresses because of damage and danger. Why then should jeepsters be allowed to travel along the sand?

Maybe the previous Sunday's whale sensed that the beach off Carmel Point was doomed to be a parking lot. The only solace to U.C.P.S.S. members is that a pickup was stuck in the sand at state-owned San-Jose Creek Beach Sunday afternoon. Anyone who saw the plight of this vehicle should hesitate before driving along the shore.

COL. HARWOOD RETIRES

Colonel H. E. Harwood writes from Wellesley, Massachusetts, that he is retiring from active Army service on March 31 and coming to Carmel to be a permanent resident. Colonel and Mrs. Harwood and their daughter, Dawn, lived in Carmel in 1941-42. Dawn graduated from Carmel High School in February, 1942, one of a class of two. The Harwoods also, spent part of 1944 here and have been legal residents of California since 1922.

SIGNS OF THE ZODIAC - ARIES, THE RAM

On the first day of Spring, the sun moves north of the equinoctial or celestial equator at the First Point of Aries, the vernal equinox. On this day, light and darkness are equally divided. The days grow longer until Midsummer, lessening again until Autumn. This point is used by astronomers and navigators as the origin of celestial longitude, called right ascension. Together with declination, or celestial latitude, it measures positions of stars, and other bodies in the heavens, including satellites.

From 21 March to 20 April, the sun is in the Sign of Aries, the Ram, or He-Lamb, for astrologers. This was true for about 2,000 years before the beginning of the Christian Era, see Job 38:32. In this period, man began the sacrifice of animals, lambs, goats and doves, to his Gods, instead of humans. The Old Testament gives examples. Abraham offered Isaac as sacrifice in Genesis 22, but took, instead, the Ram. This Spring month is that of increase of flocks, of growing of crops, of new life.

Aries, the Ram, is called the Prince of Celestial Signs. To the Hebrews, it was the Lamb of Creation; to the Greeks, the Ram with the Golden Fleece; to the Chinese,

Letters To The Editor . . .

Carmel, California
March 17, 1959

Editor, The Pine Cone:

It would be interesting to know how many daily papers and news-casts carried the Associated Press error last Friday about Friday the 13th. It was—and how many, if any, checked it and corrected the mistake.

After comment on the twin Friday the 13ths in February and March, the item soothed superstitious fears by saying the dangerous turn would not recur again for six years, a double miscalculation in fact, due to the two intervening leap years, 1960 and 1964.

In 1964, five years from now, not six, March 13 is on Friday, but February doesn't leap until 1965, so its 13th is on Thursday when March has Friday. Then 1968 Leap Year puts the 13th on Tuesday and Wednesday, but two years later, 1970, both months again have Friday the 13th, when you may again suffer double jeopardy. —D. L. T.

The White Sheep. In the house of the planet Mars, it is the Sign of the Tribe of Gad, the Warrior. Centuries before Christ the ancients called this sign, "the Lamb of God," "the Savior." The Lamb was a symbol of purity, an emblem of innocence, and priests were called Shepherds.

The constellation represents beauty, symmetry, new life; the resurrection of the Sun God. May be realization of his destiny. "I AM!" Aries lies south of the Pleiades, southeast of Cassiopeia's Chair. Its main stars are Hamal, Denkar, Mesartim and Sheratan. The symbol suggests the face and curling horns of a Ram. It tells, also, that man may for a time follow a simple path, but comes to a fatal choice, must decide to turn right or left. —Howell Armor.

Dear Editor:

I have read letters in your paper about the proposed changes threatening Carmel, may I add my voice to the Carmelites who seek to defend our city? I shall take only one item and utter a plea to save our Carmel Theatre. It is a charming building and has served our community well, bringing to Carmel many excellent movies. There are some of us here who have no cars, and have spent many enjoyable hours being entertained in the Carmel Theatre. It is so pleasant to walk there to see a movie, and home again in the tranquil night. If they pull it down where shall we go for our movies? If we have to take a bus to Monterey it will be an added expense which some of us can ill afford. Carmel needs two movie houses for the films are frequently held over for at least two weeks. Anyway, when a building is in serviceable condition and fulfilling its function, why pull it down? To me it seems just senseless waste.

May I add two more things? First, about the proposed buildings on the Plaza. Instead of more hotel units, chain stores, etc., why could we not be given an auditorium where there would be more room for the Bach Festival, and more accommodation for Carmelites wishing to join the Carmel Music Society? Then regarding the new highway. It seems to me that this craze to build more and more highways is something we should all fight against. They are all very well in their place, but these days they don't know their place, but are becoming like ravening monsters seeking to devour all peace, beauty and tranquility.

Sincerely yours,
Catherine Eastwood McGrath

Editor, The Pine Cone:

Somewhere in Southern California, perhaps near Victorville, there is a motel each unit of which is an Indian tepee. Not a real one, of course—no smoke hole at the top, not made of hides, or any such nonsense, but windows, a door, plumbing (I suppose), and so on. Are we coming to that sort of thing in Carmel? After the Jade Tree with its garish floodlighting, what? Chalets? Igloos? Cliff dwellings? Hogans? Log cabins? Little Buckingham Palaces? Crenelated castles? Chateaux? (Take a crack at Roget yourself.)

It all seems to have started most mildly with the fake timbered stucco of the New Inn. Then came Scandinavian Hofsas House with its showy lighting. Now the Jade Tree, its lighting suggesting that the next motel will go in for neons. Maybe there should be some sort of control before the trend gets out of hand. Perhaps the chief objection to all this sort of thing is that it is strictly bogus or, heaven help us, consciously quaint.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN S. STANTON

Poetry Winners Announced At Workshop Dinner

Friday, the thirteenth of March, was a thrill-filled evening of poetry and music, held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church of the Wayfarer. It was the occasion of the Second Annual Award Dinner of the Carmel-Santa Cruz Poetry Workshop, under the Adult Education Program.

A full quota of local and out-of-town members of Mrs. Olivia Young's classes, guests and speakers enjoyed solos sung by Jeanne Gervais of Santa Cruz and interesting talks contributed by Walter and Linda Stussie, Berkeley officers of the State Federation of Chaparral Poets.

Dr. K. Fillmore Gray delighted the audience with intimate comments pertinent to his association with well-known contemporary poets. He concluded with dramatic readings from selected poems of his choice.

The judges of the poems, written by members of Mrs. Young's two classes, was Elma Dean of Berkeley, California. Elma Dean will best be remembered for her hauntingly beautiful poem about the young war dead, Letter to St. Peter. This poem has been translated into several languages. Mrs. Young, who read the winning poems in the five categories mentioned below, made each one sound like a musical masterpiece.

Miscellaneous category: 1st, Change (haiku), Evelyn Marchi, Santa Cruz; 2nd, Fantasy, (cinquain), Blanche Moke, Carmel; honorable mention, Look What Man Hath Wrought (triolet), Lola Graham, Santa Cruz.

Blank verse: 1st, The Tree, Lois Wilson, Carmel; 2nd, Peepshow, Jerry Rose, Santa Cruz; honorable mention, Atoms to Atoms and Dust, Grace Dahlstrom, Santa Cruz.

Sonnet: 1st, Deserted Castle, Ruby Owens, Santa Cruz; 2nd, Malady, Margaret Deane, Santa Cruz; honorable mention, The Mother of Judas, Alice Askew, Carmel; and Matins, Arthur Wild, Carmel.

Free verse: 1st, Camouflage, Fay Frykland, Santa Cruz; 2nd, Jealousy, Evelyn Marchi, Santa Cruz; honorable mention, Aprons, Lois Wilson, Carmel.

Lyric: 1st, Surf, Arthur Wild, Carmel; 2nd, New Road, Fayette Couzens, Carmel; 3rd, The Open Window, Alice Askew, Carmel; honorable mention, Autumn Prayer, Blanche Moke, Carmel, and Over the Pass, Vera Dickinson, Santa Cruz.

An unscheduled part of the program was the enthusiastic tribute paid to Mrs. Young by a member of the Carmel class, Arthur Wild. He said in part, "because she makes you feel like a poet, you write like one." Just before adjournment, the now retired minister, the Rev. J. H. McCartney, a faithful member of the Carmel class, read a rhyme full of chuckles, written by himself and accompanied by the presentation to "teacher" of a rosy red apple. (signed): Eva L. Dunbar

SCIENTIST TO LECTURE AT MPC ON JAZZ

S. I. Hayakawa, semanticist, will discuss his hobby, jazz, at 8:00 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Monterey Peninsula College Armory. The title of his talk is The History and Development of the Blues. His second local appearance is again sponsored by the MPC evening lecture series. There is no admission charge.

A six-piece combo will play to illustrate Mr. Hayakawa's talk. Blues singer Claire Austin will also be on the program. Combo members are Jack Sheedy, trombone; Bill Napier, clarinet; Jack Menger, trumpet; John Elgin, piano; Chuck Austin, drums, and a bass player whose name has not yet been announced.

Mr. Hayakawa is the author of Language in Thought and Action. He formerly taught semantics at the University of Chicago. Now he is on the faculty of San Francisco State College and lives in Mill Valley. Recently he gave a 13-lecture seminar at the University of Wisconsin, tracing the development of jazz.

The blues, Mr. Hayakawa maintains, were a solace for the Negro during the 1920s, a release from things white. This accounted for the endless stream of this type of American music during those years, he says.

John Sherwood, Jr. Receives Medal And Promotion

Major John W. Sherwood, Jr., son of Colonel John W. Sherwood (U. S. Army, Ret.) and Mrs. Sherwood of Hatton Road, has received the Air Force Commendation Medal at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, from General E. W. Rawlings, commander of Air Material Command.

The same day Major Sherwood was promoted to the temporary rank of major from captain.

Major Sherwood's award was for his work as personnel executive and aide to General Rawlings since October, 1956. He exercised great tact and diplomacy in meeting with high-level civilians and military personnel in the Department of Defense and the United States Air Force, according to the citation that accompanied the award.

Born at Washington, D. C., Major Sherwood was graduated in 1945 from the U. S. Military Academy with a bachelor of science degree. He later received the equivalent of a second bachelor of science degree on his graduation from the U. S. Air Force Institute of Technology at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, in 1951.

The major was stationed on Guam from February, 1946, to January, 1948, and at the Headquarters, Air Material Force, Europe, Wiesbaden, Germany, where he was chief of the field operations in the directorate of procurement and production from September, 1951, to October, 1954.

From November, 1954, to September, 1956, he was chief of operations in the directorate of procurement inspection, Deputy Inspector General's Office, Headquarters, U. S. Air Force, located at Norton Air Force Base, California.

With his wife, the former Patricia Babcock, of Tempe, Arizona, the major lives at the Ohio air base.

Council To Have Do-Nut Plan From Commissioners Soon

the central district plan, before the regular commission meeting next Wednesday afternoon.

At the commission meeting on Wednesday, commissioners hope to have the chairman's report on the central district plan (better known as the Do-Nut Plan), ready to send to the council. The council's central district construction control referrals need to be reconciled with recommendations in the chairman's report, commissioners decided.

One referral to the commission yesterday afternoon was an ordinance introduced to the council by Councilman Gunnar Norberg. This ordinance is designed to control bulk, height and area of any building in the business district.

It is based on the DeCamp Report received by the council in December.

In Mr. Norberg's ordinance, no commercial building site should be under 4,000 square feet or over 8,000 square feet. A building should be one story in height and not cover more than 70 per cent of the site.

Another council-to-commission referral also was proposed to the council by Mr. Norberg. In this Mr. Norberg wishes the area of each multiple dwelling unit in the business district to be limited to 2,000 square feet, and that such allocation be exclusive. "These proposals," said Commissioner Herbert Blanks, "go back to planning commission recommendations to the council three years ago."

He asked for a council-commission study session and remarked that when the planning commission recommended exclusive zoning to the council, the council indicated they wanted inclusive zoning for the business district.

Weygers To Show New Artographs In Grove On Tuesday

Many of the latest Artographs by Alex Weygers, added to the choice ones of past presentations, will be shown Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium. The general public, tourist visitors, Audubon conventioners, etc., may have their first viewing of this beautiful lecture-show.

Of special interest will be the indescribable beauties of fantasies created by refracted light, which so astounded audiences at Stanford University and San Francisco and lately during a Carmel lecture showing. These new slides will be in Beauty in Your Own Backyard, the artist's studies of nature which lead the viewer from recognizable subjects such as plants, kitchens, ice, water, etc., to the detached parts of these until suddenly we begin to enjoy art abstraction in nature.

All who saw the new light refraction compositions, pure abstractions of light, line and color felt that their range of appreciation of beauty in nature has expanded after viewing Alex' latest probings through the means of Artography.

COUNCIL APPROVES SACRAMENTO JUNKET

After a lot of argument and with a resounding no from Gunnar Norberg, the council voted to pay expenses of Mayor John Chitwood and Councilman Allen Knight to Monterey Peninsula Day Hi-Jinks in Sacramento. A Monterey idea, council thought it would be politic to co-operate with the sister city. Same councilmen will go to Sacramento March 24 for hearing on Senator Farr's bill limiting alcoholic licenses in cities in proportion to population.

LIGHT-UP CEREMONY AT TOWN HOUSE

There was a flip-the-switch ceremony at Town House yesterday afternoon when representatives of the Carmel Lions and Kiwanis Clubs checked the newly-installed fluorescent lighting the two service clubs had financed for the Carmel Foundation Center. Painting, wiring, lights, etc., will cost $750.

Everett Smith represented Kiwanis, Ernest Bixler, George Dear and Cliff Cook were on hand for the Lions.

Principals To Spend Easter "Vacation" Seeing New Teachers

Easter vacation for the Carmel Unified School District begins tomorrow afternoon and ends when students and teachers return for classes on March 30. Administrators will not have a carefree nine days.

Superintendent Stuart Mitchell must be in his office next week to interview teachers applying for positions in the Carmel district next year. However, he does plan two long skiing week ends in Yosemite during the holidays.

High School Principal Warren Edwards leaves tomorrow for Sacramento. He will attend the annual California Principals' Convention until Wednesday noon.

Mr. Edwards, president of the local district principals' council, is a member of the state representatives' council. This legislative body, composed of representatives from the 26 district councils in California, meets on Saturday and Sunday, previous to the general convention.

After Wednesday, Mr. Edwards plans to relax and work on the installation of a hi-fi system in his home.

Sunset School Principal Orville Rogers will be away from his office on Monday when he takes his two daughters, Janice and Diane, to the Zoo in San Francisco. The rest of the week he has interviews with new teachers scheduled every day.

Richard O'Connell, principal of Woods and River School, hopes his new home, near the Monterey Peninsula Country Club golf course, will be completed so that he can spend his Easter vacation moving. When not working at his new house, Mr. O'Connell will interview "teachers from all points."

William Mallek, principal of Tularcitos and Carmelo Schools, will be in his office interviewing teacher applicants most of Easter vacation week. He plans a visit to San Francisco with Mrs. Mallek, leaving on Sunday and returning on Wednesday morning.

FHA MEETING EXPLAINS CAP MARCH 25 IN MONTEREY

Daniel G. Minto, director of the Federal Housing Administration for Northern California, announces that his agency is holding a local luncheon meeting on March 25 in Biff's Restaurant. Arrangements for this affair are being made by Robert Work, Work Lumber Company; Thomas Gardner, Western Title Guaranty; Arthur Willert, Carmel Builders Supply. Reservations may be made through these men.

All persons qualified and interested in becoming appraisers or inspectors for the Federal Housing Administration's new Certified Agency Program (CAP) are invited to attend this meeting, also lenders, builders, contractors, appraisers, architects and building inspectors. Under the new CAP, applications will be filed with approved local lending institutions who will do underwriting functions previously performed by FHA offices. Local appraisers will be employed, also local inspectors. This should reduce processing time from weeks to days for an area where it is in effect.

Helen Bennett's Weaving Next At The Carmel Library

The work of Helen Vertner Bennett, known on the Peninsula as a lace maker and weaver, member of the Weaving Section of the Carmel Crafts Guild, will be on display in the Guild's Library exhibit case during the week of March 20-27.

Mrs. Bennett studied tapestry weaving at the Chicago Art Museum, taught weaving at the Museum of Science and Industry, and was on the Governing Board of the Colonial Coverlet Guild of America in Chicago, which was her home before moving to the Peninsula.

A long-time member of the Crafts Guild, her late husband, Robert M. Bennett having served as its president for two terms, Mrs. Bennett has been most active in the weaving section. At the moment, she is designing and silk screening the hundreds of "programs for the Seventh Annual Northern California Handweavers' conference to be held at the Fair Grounds May 2-3. She is also program chairman for this event.

Anyone interested in further information about the Weaving Conference may call Mrs. Bennett, OL 9-2391.

TRYOUTS TONIGHT FOR NEW STUDIO PLAY

Try-out readings will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at The Studio Theatre in Carmel, Dolores between Ocean and Seventh, for their new production of The Seven Year Itch by George Axelrod.

There are roles open for the three leading parts, as well as two character comedy male roles, and several attractive girls to play dream romances of Richard, the leading comedy role made famous by Tom Ewell both on Broadway and in the movies.

The current production, Women And Tennessee Williams, four one-act plays by Tennessee Williams will continue playing on Fridays and Saturdays throughout March.

C. S. Lecturer Cites Power Of Spiritual Thinking

The price of freedom from sickness, worry and lack is spiritually scientific thinking, Robert S. Van Atta of Rochester, New York, told a Carmel audience March 16.

Practical understanding of God's law of healing is available to all, said Mr. Van Atta.

"Intelligence," he declared, "is not a chance inheritance, the endowment of the fortunate few but unavailable to many. It is the free gift of God, to which all are entitled and which all must claim and practice."

A member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Mr. Van Atta spoke in the church edifice, Monte Verde Street, near Sixth Avenue, under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Carmel.

Speaking on the subject, "Christian Science: Practical Christianity for Modern Times," the lecturer noted that spiritually scientific thinking is based, not on laborious personal effort, but on God as the all-knowing, divine Mind, the creator of all true thoughts.

"God is the only real Mind or Life," he said, "and man is His reflection or expression. True thinking, then, as explained in Christian Science, is the activity of the divine Mind or Spirit, creating, sustaining, and expressing all true spiritual being."

Commenting on the challenges of the atomic age, the lecturer emphasized humanity's urgent need for assurance of God's presence and protection.

"The Mind of Christ, referred to in the Bible, understood and lived, restores and protects health, supplies all human needs and ensures safety and security," he declared.

The man of God's creating, he said, possesses divine wisdom and intelligence.

"Many people think of mind," he said, "as human intellect, having little warmth of kindness but expressed in cold, unfeeling logic. But Christian Science shows that Mind as God is also divine Love, eternal Spirit, not matter. Therefore man, as the expression of divine Mind, is spiritually intelligent, spiritually minded."

He pointed out that there is a God-enforced obligation to be intelligent, just as there is a moral obligation to be good.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

When the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra started rehearsals for the great Beethoven Ninth Symphony one heard complaints from some of the personnel of its difficulty. Judging now from its performance in the third concert of this season, there was no evidence of those difficulties having prevented an offering of the work that raised the status of the performers as a whole, for it resulted in a triumph of accomplishment for Director Gregory Millar, the orchestra, soloists and chorus.

The greatest difficulties to contend with are the fluctuating attendances at the comparatively few rehearsals available, and where large professional orchestras are rehearsing every day, a weekly meeting can hardly be expected to produce as finished a performance; yet, the genius of Millar effected with his high aspirations, passionate intensity and tempi, the almost impossible, for the whole meaning of Beethoven's contribution to the theme of Joy and Brotherhood of Man stirred the full and appreciative house to spontaneous enthusiasms. Even Toscanini is reported to have stated he had never had what he considered a perfect performance of the great work!

To conduct a composition of such dimensions without the score, and without having previously conducted it, was Millar's amazing performance in itself, while his love of the music and its import held it aloft in an inspired "seventh heaven" that carried the performers with him. With such interpretation technical slips are of no importance comparatively. They happen even in the work of great artists.

What the composer meant is the "raison d'être." Composers, therefore, should always receive the highest honors for worthy conceptions—a fact the performers' "star" system has tended to supercede. Nevertheless, it was the profundity of Beethoven, then the performers, that the audience at Sunset recognized and the miracle of the inner hearing of a totally deaf individual outwardly. To have missed so inspiring an occasion was a great loss.

Francesco Mazzi, leader, Raymond Duste, oboist, and possibly several others from San Francisco bolstered the whole, while the violas, led by Myriam Zunker, did valuable work, as also the cellists, particularly in the last movement of the symphony where all the strings were carrying the long, melodic lines with sympathetic tone values, while in the Scherzo movement, with the exhilaratingly progressive rhythms, the speed and lightness was a challenge they met with credit. Woodwinds, brasses and drums were pleasingly articulate throughout. The large Symphony Chorus gleaned from local choirs and the Fort Ord Men's Chorus, while handicapped on the back of the stage, produced quite a good volume of tone and responded well to Millar's baton, both in the Beethoven and the Mussorgsky Coronation Scene from his opera Boris Godunov. Given first, the harsh clang of the bells in Mussorgsky's strong music made an impressive opening to the dramatic whole. Ted Cross appeared as Boris, which suited him, and delivered his solo with distinction. John Sundquist (baritone), gave the prelude solo to Shiller's Ode to Joy with his full sonorous voice after the soft, far away introduction by the cellos of the main theme of the Ode which returns many times to haunt the listener with its simplicity and happiness.

Harold Inverson, tenor; Jean Canada, contralto, and Norma Jean Scott, soprano, with Sundquist, were the effective solo quartet. Two previous performances were played at Fort Ord and Salinas. The next symphony event will be May 11 at Salinas and May 12 in Carmel.

Jose Greco and his company of Spanish Dancers entranced the Carmel Music Society's audience which packed Sunset Auditorium Wednesday of last week. We have recently seen other dancers of the ilk but none so accomplished as the internationally famous Greco and his partner, Lola de Ronda, with 15 other gifted artists. Their comprehensive program reflected historical art of the dance in the various provinces of Spain, in all of which the characteristic restraint and yet passionate feeling of the Iberian temperament found vent. Clothed in various costumes of color and voluptuousness, they danced with clapping feet taps, castanets and singing that sometimes drowned out the three guitars.

Watching emotion in motion, one can be carried away with its ecstasy in lines and figures that are not stereotyped choreography but that sum up beauty and spontaneity like a flash that is gone or progressed to still more startling movements. No other dancing is like it and it fascinates the public in every country. It was, therefore, not surprising that the house was a sellout before the date, though there were several unoccupied seats people had thoughtlessly not relinquished, and a disappointed crowd waited at the box office.

Greco himself appeared in nine numbers. His tall, commanding form paced the stage in subtle, undulating and changing contours of grace, distinction, majestic posture and amazing rapidity.

In Cordoba, with music by Albeniz, de Ronda completely captivated the audience, particularly in her flamenco "traje di cola" trailing dress, which she managed so adroitly, as well as her flexible hand movements and back-bends.

Other solos were danced by Jose Molina, Manuela de Terez and Rosario Caro, but so enchanting was the work of the whole company that all earned acclaim in the various numbers. The final scene was composed of flamenco themes derived from primitive folk rather than later neo-classic elements of the early wandering tribes of Hindu or Moorish gypsies. And into their midst came Master Miguel, a small boy protege of Greco, whose perfect little figure danced with such artistic sense it proved how Spaniards are instinctively dancers from cradle to grave.

Roger Machado, responsible with Lydia Del Mar for most of the musical background dealt some smashing blows in a piano solo, and Ricardo Belasco delighted with a guitar solo. When Maria Merida sang in sympathetic and lighter tones, cessation of the "noises" of hand-clapping, foot-tapping, castanets and harsher singing was appreciated, even though such belongs to the character of flamenco dancing!

WILDERNESS OF THE WEST

A monthly column
By C. EDWARD GRAVES

THE WILDERNESS BILL AND POINT LOBOS

This is the first column in the present monthly series bearing the title, Wilderness of the West. From March, 1954, to December, 1957, while serving as Western representative of the National Parks Association, my weekly column, Conservation on the March, appeared in the Pine Cone. Now as a free lance writer I have been invited by the Pine Cone editor to start a new column with the emphasis on wilderness conservation.

Lest at the outset there should be a false impression that wilderness is found only in far-off places and is of no immediate concern to residents of the Monterey Peninsula, I should like to explain my concept of wilderness values. A bill, familiarly known as the Wilderness Bill, bearing the full title, A Bill to Establish a National Wilderness Preservation System, is now before Congress and will be the subject of much debate during the next few months. Therefore, it is well to make an attempt to clarify the meaning of wilderness.

There are two kinds of beauty. One is the work of man; the other is natural. Many philosophical statements about beauty pertain to both of these types. Esthetics includes them both. Any comparison between them is pointless. Nevertheless, natural beauty in its pure aspects—that is, nature unaffected by human activities—is measured by a standard of its own. When there is no trace whatever of human activities, then we have pure wilderness—unadulterated natural beauty.

There is almost no pure wilderness left in the world today. Even in the so-called Arctic wastes modern transportation has made human invasion increasingly possible. The most important phenomenon of the twentieth century from a human standpoint—population explosion—will do the rest. Wilderness is, therefore, a comparative term. The extent of its dilution is the important factor in determining its character.

I have inserted this prologue to a brief discussion of the Wilderness Bill (H. R. 2187) because so many people think of wilderness as an undesirable locality, an area full of danger and discomforts to be avoided at all costs. Exactly the opposite meaning is in the minds of those conservationists who are working to keep a small percentage of our public lands—pitifully small—free from commercial development or excessive human activity. These areas are the ultimate in unspoiled beauty—virgin forests, mountain meadows, free-flowing streams with their waterfalls, sequestered lakes, rocky coastlands. Enjoyment of them is the highest type of spiritual activity, comparable to that of the greatest music or the highest art.

The Wilderness Bill is intended to give better protection to the most nearly undiluted form of wilderness that we have in this country today, the designated wilderness areas of the national forests and the back country of the national parks, reached only by trail. At present the disposal of these areas is subject to administrative decisions of the officers of the U. S. Forest Service and the National Park Service. The bill introduces safeguards by means of appeal to Congress and in other ways helps to prevent encroachment and "development" in the future.

The opponents of the bill are mainly stockmen, miners, lumbermen, oil promoters and others who look to the public domain for financial profit. There is no reason for their opposition, because the bill does not change the present status of our wilderness lands in any respect. They have consistently either misrepresented or misunderstood the bill in their publications and at public hearings. I participated in one of these hearings in San Francisco last fall and can vouch for the truth of that statement.

At Point Lobos we have a small bit of wilderness preserved for all time. On the North Shore Trail, which will never, I am sure, be supplanted by a road, one can enjoy briefly the feeling of primeval natural beauty, which is the essence of wilderness. We should be eternally grateful for this and if gratitude can develop into volunteer activity to help set aside and protect other areas elsewhere, our country will be the better off for it.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The effectiveness of prayer in healing the sick will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Matter."

From the Gospel according to St. Mark will be read the healing by Christ Jesus of the young lad who had "a dumb spirit." The account ends with Jesus' comment to his disciples, "... This kind can come forth by nothing, but by prayer and fasting" (Mark 9:29).

Also emphasizing the power of prayer are passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following (15:9): "To enter into the heart of prayer, the door of the erring senses must be closed. Lips must be mute and materialism silent, that man may have audience with Spirit, the divine Principle, Love, which destroys all error."

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

Some library patrons may have noticed a change last Sunday afternoon when they arrived here and found us open earlier than usual. The fact is that so many people were waiting for the opening of the library each Sunday that we decided to change the hours to 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock. It seemed that many persons went from church to eat a bite of lunch and then to the library, only to be forced to wait about an hour for the library to open its doors. This new schedule should be a greater convenience to the public.

In his book The Swamp Fox, Robert Bass describes General Frances Marion as a tactical genius, a fearless fighting man, an unswerving patriot, and one of the least known generals of the American Revolution. Here is a book on the general and on the guerilla warfare which played so valuable a part in the fighting of our first great war. Another war, almost 150 years later, was touched off for this country by an intercepted telegram known as the Zimmerman telegram. It was 1917, and the European War had exhausted its participants. The United States was neutral. Then the British intercepted the Zimmerman telegram which suggested to Mexico that she enter the war on the side of Germany and that she try to persuade Japan to leave the Allies and join with Mexico in the effort to regain Mexico's lost lands from the United States. The book recounting all this with historical accuracy is by Barbara Tuchman and is entitled The Zimmerman Telegram.

Parents are constantly finding themselves faced with behavior problems in their children. Two doctors have recently published a book entitled Parent-Child Tensions which should shed much light on these problems. The doctors are Schwartz and Ruggieri, and their book is ready for circulation on our new non-fiction shelves.

A healthy interest in archeology which is much in evidence today ensures a welcome for new books on the subject. Kathleen Kenyon has recently had published Digging Up Jericho. This is the earliest city to have been discovered and excavated to date. The author is Director of the British School of Archeology at Jerusalem.

From light comedy to Hamlet and King Lear, Michael Redgrave has played them all and writes of his experiences and his theories of theatre in Mask or Face. The book is well illustrated with photographs of the author in his many roles.

There are novels, too, including the Japanese story entitled Thousand Cranes by Yasunari Kawabata. No column next week because this librarian will be in Sacramento attending a workshop on, guess what, libraries!

Anna Stackpole

Mrs. Anna Henrietta (Etta) Stackpole died in a local hospital on March 13 after a short illness. She came from San Jose to live in Carmel 12 years ago. For some years Mrs. Stackpole was proprietor of a jewelry business here.

Mrs. Stackpole was born on September 27, 1887, in San Francisco. Her husband the late Howard William Stackpole died in 1946.

Surviving her are a son, Howard Willard Stackpole of Carmel and Berkeley; a brother William C. Beckman of Walnut Creek; two nieces, Mrs. Earl Giffen of Los Angeles and Mrs. Lillian Witt of Petaluma; and a nephew, Henry C. Bender of San Francisco.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Stackpole were held on Saturday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium. A service of remembrance was held on Tuesday afternoon in the same chapel.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Stackpole may do so in the form of donations to the Monterey County Heart Association, Box 1329, Monterey.

40 HARTNELL STUDENTS AT S. J. MAKE 2.37 GRADE POINT AVERAGE

Hartnell Junior College in Salinas sent 483 transcripts to 90 colleges and universities during the 1957-58 college year, according to a survey taken recently by Karl Bengston, dean of admissions and registrar.

San Jose State college was the chief recipient, having been sent transcripts of 116 students, while 50 transcripts were sent to the University of California. San Francisco State college received 29 transcripts, Fresno State 23, Cal Poly 20 and Sacramento State 14.

The registrar also noted that 40 former Hartnell students attended San Jose State during the spring of 1958 and received a grade point average of 2.37 as compared with a 2.52 average at Hartnell.

State Invites Bids For Interchange At Castroville Junction

Revision of the present traffic signal system and construction of channelization at the intersection of State Sign Routes 1 and 156 near Castroville will soon start as the State Division of Highways today began calling for bids on the project.

Bids will be opened in Sacramento on April 15, 1959, and actual construction is expected to get under way during the latter part of May, depending upon when the contract is awarded to the low bidder.

The project, located at what is locally known as the Castroville Junction, consists of changing the existing two-way traffic signal system to a three-way system to provide a separate left-turn signal to allow controlled turning from the southerly leg of the intersection on Sign Route 1 left toward Castroville and Watsonville on Sign Route 1 only.

In addition, a median left-turn lane about 200 feet long will be constructed to provide a passing lane for through traffic going toward Prunedale and U. S. 101 to go around motorists desiring to turn left from the Seaside-Fort Ord leg of the intersection, thus considerably reducing the present congestion caused by both through traffic and left-turn traffic having to use the same traffic lane.

A total of $30,000 has been made available for the project by the California Highway Commission in the state highway budget as a continuing program to provide the traveling public with safer intersections on important two-lane portions of state highways.

Annual Latore Breakfast

Carmel Mission Altar Society members met in the Victorian Room of Pine Inn on March 8 for their annual Latore Sunday Communion Breakfast. A large house-shaped table was decorated for the occasion with cranberry glass. Sprays of huckleberry were placed about the room.

Mrs. William Coughlin, vice president, took the place of the absent president, Mrs. Walter Roland, at the head of the table with past presidents of the society and present officers.

Those attending were Mrs. D. Allen, Mrs. C. Allaire, Mrs. H. McCraig, Mrs. H. Burke, Mrs. Marie Berry, Mrs. V. Born, Mrs. F. DeAmaral, Mrs. J. Dempsey, Mrs. O. Frey, Mrs. M. Forderhace, Mrs. W. Hanmore, Mrs. M. Shane, Miss G. Gehres, Mrs. G. O'Brien, Mrs. J. Callahan, Mrs. Mary Gould, Mrs. Paul Hilsdale, Mrs. Mae Koch, Mrs. J. Lloyd, Mrs. J. McCloskey, Mrs. J. L. Murphy, Mrs. Mae McGrury, Mrs. M. Murcell, Mrs. J. Lial, Mrs. R. Neuman, Miss Ellen O'Sullivan, Mrs. R. Osborne, Mrs. H. Palmtag, Mrs. E. Patterson, Mrs. S. Robinson, Mrs. J. Johnson, Mrs. M. Thompson, Lady Maria Antonia Field, Mrs. H. Roberts, Mrs. M. Reardon, Mrs. D. Shipley and Mrs. N. Smith.

Margaret Sarosdy Second Child

A Sunday's child is Margaret Ellen Sarosdy, daughter of Lieutenant and Mrs. Louis Sarosdy. She weighed exactly seven pounds when she was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on March 8. Her brother, Larry, is 16 months old.

Lieutenant Sarosdy graduates in aeronautical engineering from the U. S. Navy Postgraduate School in May. He will attend management school at the NPGS through the summer, then enter California Institute of Technology in the fall to obtain a master's degree.

Margaret Ellen's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Pryor Jr., of Jackson, Mississippi, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sarosdy of Shreveport, Louisiana, who plan to come to Carmel to see their newest grandchild during the summer.

St. Patrick's Housewarming

Captain and Mrs. Leonard Kirby invited friends to a St. Patrick's Day costume dance on Tuesday. The party was a housewarming for their new Pebble Beach home.

Thoreau Great Books Subject

Members of Carmel's Great Books Group will discuss Thoreau's Civil Disobedience and Walden tomorrow evening at 8:00 o'clock in Carmel High School. Selections from Walden will also be read. John Lenk is leader of the group and may be reached at MA 4-3201.

On Trip To Orient

Mrs. Mary Q. Harris and Mrs. Lucille Brady of Carmel Valley are on the S.S. President Wilson en route to Japan. Before returning here they will visit Honolulu, Yokahama, Manila, Hong Kong and Kobe, with a second stop in Hawaii on the return journey.

John Farrell Graduates

Naval Aviation Cadet John C. Farrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Farrell, graduated last month from the Navy's Pre-Flight School at the Naval Air Station in Pensacola, Florida. He is presently undergoing actual flight training at Saufley Field in Pensacola.

Kathryn Todd Wins Award

Mrs. Kathryn Todd, civilian employee of the Legal Section, Courts and Boards Special Troops at Fort Ord, has won a sustained superior performance certificate and $100 cash award. The presentation was made on March 12 by Colonel J. B. Macdougall, commanding officer, Special Troops.

Mrs. Todd is the wife of John (Bud) Todd of Carmel and the mother of Marsha, 14; Nancy, five, and Gregory, 12 years old.

Wendy Lucille Kappadahl Born

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lewis Kappadahl are the parents of three children since the birth of Wendy Lucille at the Peninsula Community Hospital on March 10. She weighed eight pounds, eight and one-half ounces. Her sister, Linda, is five years old, her brother, Eddie, three.

Wendy's grandparents are Mrs. Esther Kappadahl and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Agers, all of Oakland. Mrs. Agers is in Carmel helping her daughter take care of Wendy and her brother and sister.

Nan Fowler Married

Carmel visitors last week end were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Erhart of Sausalito who were married in Reno, Nevada, on March 7. They came to Carmel to visit Mrs. Erhart's father, Webster Street, and Mrs. Street. Mrs. Erhart exhibits her paintings under the name of Nan Fowler. She is also a ballad singer in the San Francisco Bay region. Her husband is an active member of Bay area little theater circles.

Travel Talk At Woman's Club

In her lecture, Let's Take a Trip, Mary Gordon will give to members of the Home and Garden Section of the Carmel Woman's Club, on Monday, tips on "what to take when tripping and how to pack it."

Mary Gordon, a native Californian, majored in home economics at the University of California but after graduation deserted this field for the broader world of travel. She has circled the globe as T.W.A.'s Women's Travel Advisor, and as such gathers information from many lands for women everywhere. Her policy is "when in Rome, do as the Romans do," and so, as means of transportation, she has mounted jaunting cars in Ireland, caresses in Rome, camels in Cairo and skis in Switzerland.

During the social hour after the lecture, there will be an opportunity to meet the speaker and chat with one's friends. Tea will be served by Mrs. Samuel B. Moore, hospitality chairman, assisted by Mrs. C. U. Fonteneau, Mrs. C. A. Broadus, Mrs. George J. Meyer, Mrs. James J. Downey, Mrs. Laurence H. Lyon, Mrs. Edith M. Becker, Mrs. Edwin J. Schmitt and Mrs. J. J. Adams.

Cruise In West Indies

Mr. and Mrs. Shreve M. Archer Jr., flew to Naples, Florida, this week to visit Mr. Archer's mother, Mrs. John Farrington, for a few days. Then they plan to join Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osborne in Miami where the Archers and Osbornes have chartered a yacht for a two-week cruise to the British West Indies.

Before meeting the Archers, Mr. and Mrs. Osborne will visit Mr. Osborne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lithgow Osborne in New York. They leave tomorrow.

The two couples also plan a visit to New Orleans after the cruise. They will be back here in the middle of April.

Active In S. F. Theater

Barbara Horder West (Mrs. Rolleston West) is teaching a speech class at the Interplayers Theater in San Francisco. She also directs a San Francisco drama group which is giving two costume fantasies, The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife by Anatole France and Square Pegs by Clifford Bax. These plays will be presented at the Marines Memorial Theatre this evening.

Another Carmelite, Mrs. Walter de Martini, has a part in one of the plays and has designed the costumes for the productions.

William Bishop In Auckland

"There have been so many interesting happenings on this voyage, I wouldn't know how to begin to tell of them," writes William Bishop from Auckland, New Zealand. On his round-the-world trip, Mr. Bishop has visited Hawaii, Tahiti, the Fiji Islands and New Zealand. He will stay in Australia for some time, then continue his trip.

Sandra Lamb Married

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frank Lamb of Pebble Beach are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Sandra Fleury Lamb, to Blair Thompson Camp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Camp of Carmel. The wedding was on March 12 in Salinas.

The bride is a graduate of Punahou School in Honolulu, Santa Catalina School for Girls and the Monterey Peninsula College. She also attended Briarcliff College in New York.

The groom attended Williston Academy in Massachusetts, Newark Academy in New Jersey, Ferris Institute in Michigan and Monterey Peninsula College. His sisters are Mrs. Donald Parker of Wiesbaden, Germany, and Leslie Camp of Carmel. F. Thompson Camp of Stockton is his brother.

Lucille Sees Hawaii Celebrate

Mrs. Lucille Ray flew to Hawaii on Thursday of last week, excited that she would arrive in the midst of the fiftieth state's admission to the Union celebrations. She will be in the Islands for two weeks, arriving home in Carmel on March 27. Mrs. Ray is City Clerk Larry Rose's secretary.

Reception Sunday at Wayfarer

The new minister of education at the Church of the Wayfarer, the Rev. Victor H. Davis, and his wife will be honored at a reception on Sunday afternoon from 3:00 until 5:00 o'clock. Also to be honored at the affair, which will be held in Fellowship Hall of the church, will be Dr. and Mrs. K. Fillmore Gray. Hosts and hostesses will be representatives from various organizations and groups in the church.

Those who will assist include: Mr. and Mrs. Bela Banathy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Bell, Mrs. A. G. Bolm, Mrs. Charles Belcham, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Christie, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cunningham, Miss Janet Fehring, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Herold, Miss Maude Hook, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond K. Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Iott, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Johnson, Mrs. Lloyd Kindall, Matt Laky and Dr. and Mrs. David Lewis.

Others who will assist at the reception include: Mr. and Mrs. Philip Livingston, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lunt, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Magruder, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Harten, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin McCurry, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McCulloch, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Neddersen, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Nacco, Mrs. A. R. Pike, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon N. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robin Spriggs and Mr. and Mrs. F. Henry Venn.

Decks In Desert

Last week, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Deck enjoyed desert sunshine in Palm Springs. They also spent a week in Ojai on their way south.

Donna Home For Vacation

Donna Work, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Work Jr., arrives home on Saturday for a 10-day spring vacation from freshman year studies at Wellesley College in Massachusetts.

Ernest Wilson

Ernest G. Wilson, a teller at the American Trust Company for the past eight years, died on Tuesday evening in a local hospital. Ill health forced him to stop work a month ago.

Mr. Wilson was born in Nashua, New Hampshire, on October 21, 1918. He grew up in Hollis, New Hampshire, before moving to Florida and graduating from Sanford High School in 1936. He then attended Woodbury College in Los Angeles, graduating in 1939.

From January 1941 to December 1945, Ernest Wilson was a technical sergeant in the Army. He moved with his parents Mr. and Mrs. George E. Wilson to Pacific Grove in 1948.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a brother, George E. Wilson, Jr., of Whitney, Nevada; an aunt, Mrs. R. C. Bartlett of Manchester, New Hampshire; several cousins; and four nieces and one nephew.

Full military funeral services for Mr. Wilson will be held at 10:00 o'clock on Saturday morning in the Paul Mortuary Chapel. Burial will follow in El Carmelo Cemetery.

Daughter For The Meyers

Dr. and Mrs. L. Bruce Meyer have named their first daughter Marguerite Victoria. She weighed seven pounds, 13 ounces when she was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on March 12.

Marguerite has a brother, Calvin Bruce, who is 17 and one-half months old. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Foote of Calistoga and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Meyer of Burlingame. She also has a great-grandmother, Mrs. Harry Nordman of Burlingame.

Col. De Camp Finds Absentee Owners Willing To Help

Colonel C. A. De Camp has been busy with a little profitable letter writing, profitable for the Carmel Red Cross. "Carmel, and particularly Scenic Drive, present the problem of vacationing residents whose main charity interest is in their own home town and who give generously to chapters other than Carmel. Yet Carmel with large military demands has to raise the money as well as do the others," says Colonel De Camp, whose soliciting territory includes Scenic Drive.

Putting it up to them that way, Colonel De Camp has found them generous. "In my experience collecting here on Scenic Road, I have secured small or token contributions from donors to other home town chapters that include: San Mateo, Oakland, Campbell, Salinas, Fresno, San Francisco, Stockton, in California, as well as Chicago, Illinois; Laredo, Texas; St. Paul, Minnesota, and Wilmington, Delaware.

Colonel De Camp has collected from such other-committed donors over $500 during the present drive. The most recent check, for $5.00, came from Stockton, and was the contribution of a vacationing resident who is a director of the Stockton Red Cross.

Toastmasters Visit Soledad

Dr. Hal Funk and Richard Brown of the Carmel Toastmasters Club visited the California State Prison at Soledad on March 11 as guests of the inmates. The occasion was the semi-annual dinner of the intimate Fellowship Forum and Toastmasters clubs of area No. 1.

Special Masonic Meeting

Tomorrow evening, at 8:00 o'clock, Carmel Lodge No. 680, F. & A.M., will have a special meeting to confer the first degree. All members and sojourners are invited to attend and to remain for refreshments after the meeting.

Rudolf von Urban Wins Award For Book On Spiritualism

The youngest of Sigmund Freud's original disciples, Dr. Rudolf von Urban, the one-time Chief Physician of the Vienna Cottage Sanatorium and advisory member of the Royal Government of Vienna, has been named winner of a $100 honorable mention prize in the 1958 Pageant Press Best Book Contest, for his book, Beyond Human Knowledge. Dr. von Urban has been a Carmel resident for 15 years.

At the same time Pageant Press announced nine other cash-award winners in their annual contest which was inaugurated in 1954, and has since led to the discovery of dozens of writers.

Sunset, High School Win Science Fair Awards For Exhibits

Carmel High School students last week end made a clean sweep for the Superior Court of Monterey County, in Beyond Human Knowledge, attempts to explain the unexplained in man and nature. Here he reveals his faith in a Supreme Being, and his conversion from materialism to spiritualism.

Simultaneous with the announcement, Pageant Press announced a new Best Book Contest for 1959, with $1,600 in cash awards. First prize will be $500; second prize, $250; third prize, $150. There will also be seven Honorable Mention Awards of $100 each.

of one of the Grades 8-9-10 Biological Sciences sections at the Monterey County Science Fair held in Spanagel Hall at the Navy Postgraduate School.

First place in this section was taken by Gwen Meyer and Mike Walsh for their hypothermy exhibit. Third place was given to Mary Buffington and Marcia Hellam for their display on our common ancestor. No second place was awarded.

In the Grades 7-8-9 division of another biological sciences section, Ovilee Groom and Tasha Doner of Sunset School took first place with an exhibit on plant growth. Arthur Horning from Sunset won an honorable mention for his insect display in a different classification on the same grade level.

Corey Chapman of the High School, showing orchid propagation, took third place in another Grades 10-11-12 exhibit section of biological sciences.

In Physical Sciences classification, honorable mentions went to High School students Bill Harder and Joy Ostrander, Foucault's pendulum exhibit; and Sunset students R. Walt Prowell and Bill Hill, salt water purification display.

Hi P.T.A. Meets; Awards Project

Students from French, German, Spanish and Latin classes at Carmel High School were introduced by their teachers, then demonstrated their language proficiency for parents and teachers at the High School P.T.A. meeting on March 12. Superintendent Stuart Mitchell described the financing of the Carmel Unified District, Principal Warren Edwards introduced faculty members Mrs. Ellen Downs, who told parents of scholarship opportunities available to their children, and Buzz Rainer, who read humorous verse he had composed about the English department curriculum and teachers.

President Edgar Bissantz announced that the High School P.T.A. organization has completed a system of Scholarship Awards. Beginning this month, specially-designed honor pins will be given all students who achieve 10 or more points on the semester Honor Roll. The first time so honored, the student receives a bronze pin; the second time this will be exchanged for a silver pin; third time, silver pin exchanged for a gold pin. Students qualifying five or more times will receive gold pins set with a diamond, and their names will be engraved on a plaque for permanent display in the school.

Assisting the P.T.A. financially with this award system, to increase the incentive to excel in academic work, is the Carmel Rotary Club which is purchasing the plaque and all pins necessary to launch the project.

MPVS Honors New Members

A coffee hour honoring new members preceded the meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services on March 6 at the U.S.O. in Monterey.

Former presidents Mrs. Archer Allen and Mrs. Roy Page of Carmel presided at the table appointed with spring flowers. Mrs. John O. Simpson, president, welcomed 100 members and guests.

There have been twelve presidents since the inception of the organization in 1942 as a branch of the American Women's Voluntary Services, explained Mrs. Carl Menken. In 1955, the California Branch of AWVS withdrew from the national organization, the Monterey Peninsula Unit also withdrew.

Former presidents when the organization was AWVS and who are still members of MPVS are Mrs. Frank G. Ringland and Mrs. Roy Page, both of whom were present at the meeting.

Mrs. King Benton, who was in charge of addressing 6,000 envelopes for the Easter Seals campaign, praised her committee consisting of Mrs. Anderson M. Cannon, Mrs. Roy A. Horning, Miss Claire M. Kennedy and Mrs. Thomas E. May.

In order to give more to the community, the goal of the Thrift Shop is to make more money, reported Mrs. A. Boyd Mewborn. Thrift Shop chairman. Gross receipts for February were $1,064.01 with a net of $889.91, added Mrs. Mewborn.

The Thrift Shop's 10th birthday was celebrated by a party on Monday afternoon. MPVS members gathered at the shop. During the afternoon $250 was added to the Thrift Shop treasury through sales of small items.

Charles Nason Is Packing Guns For British Match

that the aged challenge of marksmanship is just another of the mild forms of insanity of which there are plenty throughout the sports world. There are also marksmanship "widows," who have many of the same complaints as golf and poker widows, which brings us to Mrs. Charlie Nason, who really isn't one at all. Marion Nason goes along as moral ballast for her shooting spouse.

The guns and shooting equipment being packed up now will go immediately by ocean freight, to be followed in early June by the Nasons, who this time plan a 14-month sojourn in Europe while Charlie enters both the 1959 and 1960 centennial Bisley matches held in July.

They will be accompanied by their son, Bill, 12, who is a member of the rifle team of the Robert Louis Stevenson School, and daughter, Alexandria, now a sophomore at Stanford. They also plan to make their headquarters somewhere in Surrey while Alex studies at the University of London and the other Nasons make winter tours in Spain and Italy. During their absence, another daughter, Allura, and her family will occupy the Carmel Valley home.

It seems to be typical of the Nasons, who have traveled extensively as a family, to immerse themselves up to the eyes in the customs of whatever country they happen to be visiting.

On a trip to Spain several years back, their son fought a bull and their daughter won a contest in Spanish dance, while the elder Nasons acquired for private export such a substantial collection of Spanish furniture and accessories that they decided to build a separate (and charming) room to house them on the Valley property they have occupied for the past 12 years.

Equally promising things will happen, they are sure, on this next trip.

We asked Mr. Nason what specific trophies he's brought home from the British matches alone—he has entered plenty of others in this country, too—and he listed the Entente Cordiale gold challenge trophy, bronze medals in the Scot pistol trophy match, in the Olympic Silhouette match and the Donegal and Daily Telegraph match, and the Martin-Smith trophy, among others.

Although he belongs to the North London Rifle Club and shoots with its members in team competition, he claims no other British ties except some Nason relatives in Stratford-on-Avon. He himself comes directly from Illinois and indirectly from New England where he attended Dummer Academy before studying at Virginia Military Institute.

A retired communications engineer and ordnance expert, he has worked extensively in Latin American countries. Typical of the interesting jobs in his long career was 10 years spent as communications adviser to the Guatemalan government. Setting up radio transmitters in the wilderness areas of Mexico, he hit spots few Caucasians are fortunate enough to see, and developed a lasting interest in archeology when he was called upon to supply artifacts to the Carnegie organization.

But that's another story. Charlie says. He's mostly devoted to shooting now, and to travel with his family.

And what kind of record will he make this time as a "colonial American" in Britain? He's been practicing. He held up a completed practice target. A couple of shots had scattered into the seven-ring but the bullseye was paper lace. He said it wasn't very good. He said you have to clean those holes out of the seven-ring if you really want to win prizes.

cation, would convince the dwellers that they liked it.

They didn't want anything done to the street. Why couldn't the city use its gas tax money on some other street, and why should they, who lived on the residence side of the street—the west side is commercial—have to look at center parking as planned in the second block, Victor Velissaratos wanted to know.

Francis Whitaker, former street commissioner, brought down the house when he said, "Carry the major street improvement on Junipero south of Ocean, create a four-lane highway in these two blocks, and you have a four-barrel gun pointed at Junipero south of Eighth." He pointed out that the citizens had violently opposed Junipero as a freeway through Carmel in the original master plan, and the planning commission had bowed to public protest. This was proceeding contrary to the revised and accepted master plan.

Only voice raised in favor of the project was Patricia Hall's, who was revealed as a non-resident of Junipero when Councilman Allen Knight called for a showing of hands.

When two hours of argument failed to achieve any sort of rapport between Junipero people and the Chitwood-Buffington bloc, Councilman Allen Knight made a motion to postpone the project until the use of the Fenton block is established, meanwhile that steps be taken to alleviate the mudhole in front of the Presbyterian Church.

Councilman Norberg seconded it but Councilmen May, Buffington and Chitwood voted no.

Then Buffington made a motion that the plan before them be approved. May joined Knight and Norberg in voting no on this one. He wants a major street improvement in these two blocks but he wants it like Ocean Avenue with center planting and no center parking in either block.

The result of the two motions is no major street improvement plan for the moment, and the only way to get three councilmen voting the same way to get one will be to work up a May-Ocean Avenue-Type plan.

Council was informed that the Sanitary District will no longer be responsible for street repair after sewer laterals are installed so the old city ordinance governing fees and requirements for such work was dug out and a fee scale set up.

T. B. ASSOCIATION TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING MARCH 26

The Monterey County Tuberculosis and Health Association will hold its annual dinner meeting in Salinas in the Copper Room of the Valley Center Bowl, 1081 South Main Street, March 26 at 7:00 o'clock. The public is invited to attend and anyone who has purchased a dollar's worth of Christmas Seals is a member and eligible to vote. Purpose of the meeting is to elect members to the board of directors and officers for 1959-60.

Dr. James Kieran, chest physician and internist of Alameda County, will be the guest speaker of the evening. Dr. Kieran is chairman of the Northern California Radio and Television Council for Tuberculosis Education. He will speak about the use of that media to keep the public informed and overcome apathy toward the danger and spread of tuberculosis.

The members of the association from the Monterey Peninsula are: Mrs. James B. Campbell, Miss Grace Donlin, Mrs. Richard Eldred, William H. Forestelle, M. D., Mrs. Anita Green, Will H. Light, M. D., Lieutenant Benedict Mosley, John Ruster, John C. Sharp, M. D., Loren E. Smith, Nello P. Torri, M. D., and Saul Weingarten.

UNSOLVED MURDER

One man is still assigned to the investigation of the murder of Mrs. Clara Mohr on January 10, according to Captain Darol Smith of the Sheriff's Investigation Department.

The report from Dr. Paul Kirk, criminologist from the University of California, has been received. It adds nothing that has not been already considered by the Sheriff's Office, Captain Smith says. Dr. Kirk was called in as consultant in the Mohr case by sheriff's investigators.

Mrs. Mohr was the victim of a fatal stabbing and slashing assault.

the Bank of America, and one shop which may be developed into three shop spaces, if desired. The upper story will have no windows facing Ocean Avenue and Mission Street and will cover only one-half of the structure. The material is to be stucco.

Mr. Dahlstrand explained to commissioners that the deletion of windows made the second story unobtrusive. This building will be set back four feet from Mission Street and Ocean Avenue.

At the corner of Junipero and Ocean there will be a one-story shop building for I. Magnin's. It will have four-foot setbacks on street frontages.

Between these two buildings will be a third, one-story, five-shop, structure set back from Ocean Avenue 26 feet and joined to the other two buildings by covered walkways. The Ocean Avenue setback will be a patio with trees and possibly a fountain, Mr. Dahlstrand told commissioners.

Commissioners referred the plans for study and possible action at their regular meeting next week.

At their regular meeting next week, planning commissioners will act on dividing three original 25-foot lots at the southwest corner of Junipero and Eighth Streets into two irregular sites, each 3750 square feet in area. Mrs. E. B. Mizener, owner of two of the lots, now designated as one site, has purchased the adjoining non-conforming 25-foot lot. She wishes to eliminate the non-conformance and is requesting the irregular division. There are buildings on both the present sites.

Commissioners are also asked to issue permits next week for a bar and food service addition in Pine Inn patio; to allow Philip Preble to turn two offices into one, and for an alteration at the Schultz motel.

The county planning commission has asked them to approve two subdivisions, Rancho Mar Monte and Carmel Meadows No. 5.

At the request of the city council, they will reconsider their master plan recommendations for commercial zoning at the Valley mouth and four-lane development of Junipero Street, also development of Pescadero Road and Monte Verde Street as an access route to Carmel.

STILL IN HOSPITAL

Desk Officer Lester Fletcher of the Carmel Police Force expects to remain several more days in the Monterey Hospital where he was taken in the Red Cross ambulance last week after suffering a heart attack at his home.

schools to keep abreast of improved teaching methods and curriculum. In this respect, he remarked, not only was he interested but also his wife, Winnifred.

Mrs. Snyder graduated from Radcliffe College in psychology, took education courses and did practice teaching in nursery schools before her marriage in 1946.

Army career attractiveness is the area of Dr. Snyder's research with the Human Research Unit, a unit of George Washington University's Human Resources Research Office, which does research under contract to the Army. He also is on the evening faculty at Monterey Peninsula College where, with Dr. Judson Mills, he gives a course on Public Opinion and Propaganda.

Forty-three years old, Dr. Snyder was born in Boston, Massachusetts. He graduated from Harvard University with a bachelor of science degree in economics in 1937. For the next six years he worked for a paper manufacturing company in Boston. He was an enlisted man in the Air Force from 1943-1946, serving in the United States, on Guam and in Japan while attached to a statistical control unit.

From 1946-49 he was a graduate student and teaching assistant in social psychology at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, then spent three years at the Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan as a study director.

Dr. Snyder received his doctor of philosophy degree from M.I.T. in 1953 for research on a problem of leadership and social influence. The fall previous to this he joined the Human Research Unit and came to live in Carmel.

Leidig Asks Council To Stand Pat On No To Fenton Gas Pump

accessory gas pump use for Leslie C. Fenton's proposed Carmel Plaza underground parking facility.

On Thursday night members of the Carmel Business Association at their quarterly meeting in Highlands Inn, went on record as favoring the rejected Carmel Plaza plans and indicated they would like the city council to reconsider the Fenton decision.

Friday evening members of the Carmel Citizens Committee unanimously voted their support of the council's gas pump denial for Carmel Plaza.

Last night the city council was asked to reconsider the gas pump denial by Thomas S. Montgomery, attorney representing Mrs. Harriet Roberts and Countess Claude Kinnoull. The council said they will decide whether or not to take any action on this suggestion at their regular April meeting.

Mr. Montgomery represented these same clients at planning commission and council meetings last month, asking that the gas pump use be denied. After the use was denied by the council, Countess Kinnoull and Mrs. Roberts reversed their stand. They now favor the Fenton development of the block fronting on Ocean Avenue and enclosed by Junipero, Mission and Seventh Streets. They claim they were ignorant of the true nature of Mr. Fenton's Carmel Plaza at the time they opposed the development.

U. C. Extension Art Course Starts Here At Gallery, March 26

An adult discussion group in Looking at Modern Painting will begin on the evening of March 26, at 7:30 o'clock in the Carmel Art Association Gallery, Dolores and Sixth Streets. Charles Thomas, Carmel painter and stage director, will lead the weekly, two-hour discussions.

Presented by University of California Extension, the group offers adults with similar interests an opportunity to examine the controversial views of critics, artists and other authorities. Participants are encouraged to explore with the group their own reactions to works of art. In the course of 10 meetings the paintings of Cubists, Abstractionists, Expressionists, Surrealists and other modern schools, will be examined.

A handsomely-designed book containing color plates, black and white drawings, and specially prepared commentary will be received by each participant upon enrollment. A series of colored slides will provide additional basis for discussion.

Interested adults are invited to attend the first meeting. Registration forms and further information regarding fee for the course are available at the Carmel Art Association Gallery.

SCHOOL PSYCHOLOGISTS MEET AT ASILOMAR

The 10th annual statewide meeting of school psychologists and psychometrists opened today at Asilomar and concludes at noon on Saturday.

Theme of the meeting is Spotlight on Learning: Recent Contributions to Our Understanding of the Learning Process. The California State Department of Education and the California Association of School Psychologists and Psychometrists are sponsoring the gathering.

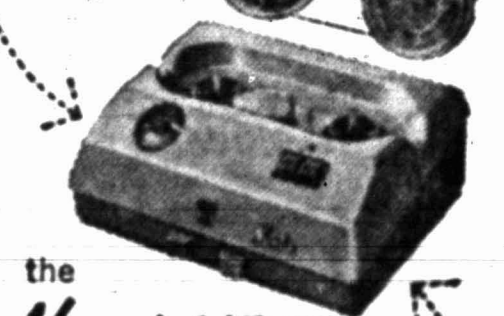

AMBULANCE CALL

Miss Ethelinda James, Mountain View and Torres Streets, was taken to the Peninsula Hospital Annex this morning. Carmel Volunteer Firemen answered a call from her doctor, asking she be transported to the Annex in the Red Cross ambulance.
